Kinesiology:

The word Kinesiology (Kin-easy-ology) means the study of motion, in how muscles act and the coordination of body movements. Muscles become stressed and imbalanced within the body. Muscles can be used as a testing tool for detection and correction of body imbalances which could relate to stress, nutrition imbalances, learning problems, emotional problems and injuries.

Kinesiology is a non-invasive method using muscle testing to identify imbalances in the body's structure. Muscle testing helps to establish the body's priority healing needs. It looks beyond symptoms - it looks at the whole person and works with the triad of health. To build equal emphasis on all sides of this triangle it looks at; Structural – physical, Mental – emotional and Chemical – nutritional.

Kinesiology helps to restore the body into balance and harmony. Using the analogy of the mind as a bio-computer, the concept of energy flow – our body has innate healing properties, but sometimes needs assistance to achieve optimum health and well being.

Imbalances to these signal pathways can be caused through:

- Stresses – muscle or emotional
- Illnesses or degeneration
- Imbalances in the brain and nervous system
- Coordination or other structural imbalances or stresses

Kinesiology is often called 'muscle balancing' or 'energy balancing' – helping the body into a better position to heal itself or reach a specified goal by 'balancing' its energies.

Kinesiology is not only a tool for dealing with ailments – Kinesiology also helps with energy balancing – bringing a person closer to achieving any goal of their choices – in sport, relationships, learning or coping with life generally.

Kinesiology can help with learning difficulties by stimulating the brain and nervous system to enhance brain integration, improve coordination and reduce stresses.

Esogetics

Esogetic Holistic Medicine according to Peter Mandel is a self-contained complementary healing system, which has originated from new ways of thinking and interconnecting information. Its unique diagnostic strategy creates the basis for entirely new approaches to therapy.

Esogetic Holistic Medicine is the result of empirical research by its founder Peter Mandel and the compilation of insights from medicine, science and philosophy. During all of it Peter Mandel has always been intrigued by the transmutation of his insights into futuristic evaluative and therapeutic methods, which he has been recognized for worldwide.

Esogetis stands for; Eso – Esogetic and Getic for Energetic.

In Esogetic Medicine we also use specially designed Crystals; gold – silver, Crystal Tattoos, Soul Spirit or Element Crystals and other special Crystals for balancing and re-aligning energy systems.

Working on the whole body which is aimed at health maintenance and the detection and treatment of disease and pain. For further information please visit the Esogetics website

Colour Therapy

This unique colour therapy is often described as acupuncture without needles. The light and colour gives healing impulses to cells which communicate via electromagnetic waves. Through this communication healing is possible and is a path to well-being.

Colourpuncture uses a specifically designed torch where rainbow, pastel or grey coloured quartz rods are attached. Selected colours and light are applied to acupuncture points and assigned zones, passed through the cells and transmitted through the meridians (energy pathways) to various organs, endocrine glands, different body systems, even the brain and nervous system.

Colourpuncture tools are: light, colour and crystal glass rods, no needles are used in this modality.

Colourpuncture is using special designed torches developed by the Peter Mandel Esoteric Institute. It uses special coloured quartz rods inserted into the torches. This high frequent colour lights are used on acupuncture points and other combination treatments, to transmit healing information to the body systems and organs that are out of balance. The Colourpuncture light is transmitted through the bodies' meridians to the cells of the organs and to the brain. Each point is treatment for 30 to 45 seconds only. These points have a particular affinity to colour. Resonance between the colour and body cell vibrations help to re-balance disharmonies within the information pathways.

This technique is non-invasive, pain-free and effective as it recognizes the individuality on all levels – body, mind, soul and spirit. It clears blockages on physical, emotional and mental levels. This gentle yet powerful therapy improves various illnesses and is designed to address the root-causes.

Colourpuncture offers many therapeutic improvements:

- Colourpuncture is a treatment for pain or illness, a preventive tool to stay health and well
- Clearing emotional problems before they cause a physical diseases of the body
- Is a tool to get to the very roots of many health problems. It is designed to address the non-physical origins of illness as well as its physical symptoms.
- Colourpuncture and colours have a profound effect on us on all levels in life, physical, mental and spiritual.

Sound Therapy International:

Sound Therapy International is a unique program to enhance the performance of the natural ear. Unlike a hearing aid which simply magnifies the volume of sound, Sound Therapy impacts the natural ear with sound waves that stimulate and enhance the responsiveness of the ear itself. In addition, sound stimulation is provided to the whole auditory pathways from the ear to the brain. Due to neural plasticity, this enables the brain to become a more efficient processor of sound.

- Hearing
- Tinnitus
- Meniere's/Vertigo
- Background noise
- Blocked ear/sinus
- Sound Sensitivity
- Nutritional support

A gymnastic program working on the middle and inner ear, Sound Therapy International may help many dysfunctions of the ear.

Sound Therapy International has been a component of India's ancient system of Ayurvedic medicine for centuries. The notion that sound waves can be transferred to target areas of the body to achieve healing effects is not new.

Sound Therapy International is a listening therapy program using special filtered classical music to improve ear and brain function.

The French ear, nose and throat specialist, Dr. Alfred Tomatis, recognised the link between the sounds we hear and our functioning in speech, learning, energy and stress. By developing filtered classical music treatments, he found ways to improve the ear function and beneficially recharge the cortex of the brain.

Treatment:

- Practitioner assessment.
- Setting up the listening program of filtered classical music on a portable player on low volume during the day or when sleeping.

Klaus Peter Becker B.L. & Org. Dev

I was born in Germany and immigrated to Australia in 1979. I travelled the world for many years to broaden my knowledge, and to learn from different cultures and its people. This gave me a good understanding of the holistic approach to life.

Having experienced some of my own health issues back in the 90's, I was introduced to Kinesiology and Esogetic Medicine Colourpuncture in 1996. Fascinated by both and experiencing positive results from the treatments on my own health, I started to study

Kinesiology and Colourpuncture. I developed my passion in helping others, and the best rewards are making a difference in someone's life.

Working since 1996 with Esogetic Colourpuncture, I completed my Diploma as Therapist for Colourpuncture from the Peter Mandel Institute in Germany in 2014.
